FIRE COMPANY'S CIRCUS PLEASES

Afternoon Performance One of Merit and Audience is Delighted with Entertainment Afforded. Have Excellent Talent.

Gettysburg's firemen provided a delightful entertainment when they secured the Welsh Brothers Circus for a benefit attraction here to-day.

Their show this afternoon was a surprise to an audience of satisfactory size and an advertisement for the evening entertainment which should be greeted by a full tent. The circus is a one ring affair but the performers are all stars and the proprietors are living up to their excellent record of other years and providing two hours of fine amusement.

From the time the expert equi-librist opened the performance this afternoon until the final act brought a close to the entertainment, the people in the tent were entertained by performers, unexcelled in their particular lines, and there were many good surprises.

The trapeze work was of the best order, the Australian balancing team could scarcely be improved upon,
while the slack wire artist got his full share of applause. The youthful con-tortionist who put himself into and out of rings apparently smaller than himself was heartily greeted while the bogie farmer, who suddenly appeared to fill an alleged vacancy, proved himself a contortionist of many joints and no mean ability.

All in all the show was good. It is small but there is always something going on and not the least enjoyable was the announcement of the after-show made by one portly gentleman whose voice would do well on Nixon Field should the present efficient announcer ever fail to appear. The circus carries with it a side show and everything that most attractions of the sort usually have with the exception of games of chance and gambling devices.

The outfit came in Sunday morning from Carlisle, unloaded, put up the side show and had the main canvas ready to raise but deferred completing the work until this morning.

Gettysburg people who missed the afternoon show will do well to attend to-night.

GOOD REVENUE

Sets Aside Big Sums Received from Hunters' License Act.

Over half a million dollars has been set aside by State Treasurer Young from the general funds of the State Treasury as special funds established by the last Legislature, all to be devoted to game purposes and payment of bounties for the killing of destructive animals and birds.

The money set aside in the last few days is all revenue from hunters' licenses. The sum of $303,200 was allotted for game preserves, feeding, protection, distribution, purchase and propagation of game and $240,320 to reimburse counties for bounties paid for noxious animals and birds. These two sums represent the income from hunters' licenses prior to April 15, 1915. The revenue from such licenses received since April 15 will be put into a fund subject to appropriation by the next Legislature.

GUARD HIS HOME

Said to Have Received Letter Demanding Large Sum.

Because A. B. Farquhar, of York, received a black-hand letter, his home, Edgecombe, in Spring Garden township, has been guarded by detectives since Saturday night, it is said.
Mr. Farquhar has received a letter in which the writer demands a large sum in cash. The demand, it is stated, is accompanied by a threat to resort to the use of dynamite. It is not designated in the letter where the dynamite is to be exploded.

UNION OUTING

Two Brethren Schools to Gather at Highland Township Resort.

The Sabbath School of Pfoutz's church, and that of the Brethren church, of Gettysburg, will meet at Hammers Park on Saturday, September 4, for a social and outing for the children.

MOTORISTS WILL FORM NEW CLUB

Plan to Take in Entire County on
New Automobile Association.
Would Have Large Membership to Advance their Interests.

Adams County is to have a motor club. Invitations are being prepared to be sent to all of the towns in the county inviting their automobile owners to join and make the organization
one of size and influence. Advance steps have been taken by McSherry-town men toward this end and a preliminary organization names Dr. A.
C. Rice as president, Charles F.
Smith as vice president, George H.
Hemler as secretary, and William Bushey as treasurer.

The name of the organization is to be "The Adams County Motor Club"
and it is expected to have the membership number well into the hundreds.
It is estimated that there are almost a thousand automobile owners in the various towns and townships of the county and more than half of these can be secured as members, it is believed. Where there are local organizations, efforts will be made to have them affiliate with the county club.

The purposes of the new association are varied. As an organization the motorists will do much more toward securing good roads than they would be able to accomplish as individuals.
They will also see that there is no imposition upon themselves or fellow motorists in endeavoring to establish speed traps or horn traps. The social feature of the organization will also be given attention and a number of excursions will be planned which will provide pleasure for all who take part and bring the people of the county into closer touch with each other.

Another meeting is to be held this week to take further steps toward making the club generally acceptable to county autoists.

STATE CROP REPORT

Damage by Hessian Fly Only Half as Great as in 1914.

Summaries of the reports on crops
of Pennsylvania made to the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture, show that while the Hessian fly damaged the wheat in half the counties of the state, the loss from the pest will be only half as great as in 1914.

Estimates in the oats crop made by L. H. Wible, chief of the bureau from the reports show that 1,105,000 acres were planted; that the production will be about 33.5 bushels per acre, and that the total will run close to 37,017-500 an increase of five million bushels over 1914.

Corn stands at 94 per cent compared with a 10-year average early in August and the production this year is estimated at 37 bushels per acre or a total of 56,314,000 bushels, a drop of almost 2,000,000 bushels as compared with 1914. Weather, frosts and pests have injured the crop in some counties.

BURNED WITH BARN

Threshing Rig Consumed in Night
Fire Near New Chester.

Fire, supposed to have been caused by a threshing outfit, which had arrived at the place during the afternoon, on Saturday evening completely destroyed the barn and four sheds on the farm near New Chester owned by Samuel Cushman and tenanted by Franklin Howe. With the barn there burned all the crops, one calf and about one hundred chickens. The threshing machine which was owned by Robert Howe, a son of the tenant farmer, was also destroyed.

The blaze was discovered after the family had retired but they discovered
it in time to save nearly all the stock and the implements. Both owner and tenant carried insurance. They do not credit the theory of the traction engine causing the blaze, but no other cause is advanced except the possible
visit of an incendiary.

PROF. MOSER TO LEAVE COLLEGE

Tenders his Resignation in Order to Accept Important Position with Large Publishing House. Active in Many College Affairs.

Prof. Franklin W. Moser, for the past five years assistant in the Department of English at Gettysburg College, has tendered his resignation to accept a position with the Maple Leaf Publishing Company, of York, a concern which does a large volume of business in the publication of monthly periodicals, scientific, medical and mathematical works.

Mr. Moser will have charge of all manuscripts and revise them before they go to the printer. He has been engaged in this work during the summer vacation and proved so efficient that his services were sought as a permanent asset to the plant. The publishing house employs about 400 men.

Prof. Moser was graduated from Gettysburg College in 1907 and two years later became a member of the faculty in the Preparatory Department. The following year he was chosen assistant professor in English in the college proper, a position which he has filled most acceptably ever since. In addition to his classroom work Mr. Moser has had charge of many of the college activities.

He was graduate manager of all the athletic teams and largely responsible for advancing the class of institutions with which athletic relations were established, the schedules for the coming year showing games with some of the best universities in the country. He directed practically all of the college theatrical attractions, wrote several sketches for the musical clubs, and was a member of the college glee club on its various trips.

Mr. Moser is a son of Rev. and Mrs.
D. M. Moser, Carlisle street. No announcement of his successor has yet been made.

KILLED 200 BIRDS

Wind and Rain Do Damage in Vicinity of Cashtown.

The heavy electrical and rain storm
which passed over some parts of Adams County on Sunday morning was particularly severe in the vicinity of Cashtown where it was accompanied by high wind. In A. L. Carbaugh's orchard peach trees were torn out and broken and large numbers of apples were blown off the trees. Jacob Minter had a cherry tree torn out and his peach crop badly damaged. Fields were badly washed. A peculiar freak of the storm was the killing of scores of sparrows and other birds. It was estimated that at least two hundred were found dead in Cashtown Sunday morning.

The storm swept over a well defined path and some parts of the county
did not get a drop of rain.

TURN HAIR DARK

If Mixed with Sulphur It
Darkens so Naturally
Nobody can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand, mother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sent the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug-stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray, pebbled abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and ap-

CAPTURES OVER 2000 RUSSIANS

General Von Buelow Again Takes the Offensive.

DEFEATS CZAR'S ARMY

Muscovites Make Sortie From Kovno and Are Repulsed, Losing 1000 Men to Germans.

London, Aug. 16.—Having recovered from the check inflicted on his last week by the Russians, General von Buelow, commanding that portion of the army of Field Marshal von Hindenburg operating to the west of the river Dvinsk, again has taken the offensive, and, according to the official report published by Berlin, has beaten the Russians in a battle in the vicinity of Kubisko and pushed them back in a northeasterly direction, taking over 2000 prisoners.

To the south before Kovno the Russians, according to the same source of information, made an unsuccessful sortie from Kovno, which the Germans are now approaching.

In the Polish sector the various German armies are slowly drawing in their line and advancing from the northwest and south on Brest-Litovsk. While they continue to take comparatively small groups of prisoners they make no claim to the capture of artillery or booty, which is considered by military observers as a fair indication that Grand Duke Nicholas armies continue their orderly retreat and that for a long time to come will be able to prevent the Germans from detaching any part of their army for large ventures elsewhere.

The official statement issued in Berlin by the Germans war office says:

"The army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg's troops under General von Buelow have driven the Russians near Kubisko in a northeasterly direction. They captured four officers and 2350 men and took one machine gun. A Russian sortie from Kovno was repulsed. One thousand prisoners fell into our hands. Our attacking troops worked nearer to the fort."

"Between the Narw and the Bug, on the line occupied by the Russians, as reported, the enemy made a stubborn stand. A narrow crossing was forced by our troops late in the evening."

"The army of General von Scholtz Saturday took more than 100 prisoners, and that of General von Gallwitz took 3550 prisoners, including fourteen officers. They also captured ten machine guns. On all fronts we gained ground."

"The Russians put up a stubborn resistance against the advance of the army under Prince Leopold of Bavaria. During the course of the day we succeeded in breaking through the enemy positions, near and north of Losyoc and midway between Losyoc and Miedzyrzec. The enemy is retreating."

"The troops under General von Woyrsch alone up to August 14 took 4000 prisoners, including twenty-two officers, and also captured nine machine guns."

"In the southeastern zone the defeated enemy attempted to range his front on a line of Rozanka, north of Miodowa, southwest of Slawatycze, Horodyszce and Miedzyrzec. Under the force of General von Mackensen's attack the enemy resumed his retreat."

SHOT BY PAYROLL BANDITS

State Cop May Pay With His Life for Protecting Wagon.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 16.—In a battle with a band of five masked highwaymen at Garman, near here, Daniel Duchier, a member of the State Constabulary, was shot and seriously wounded.

Three of the highwaymen were surrounded and surrendered, and troops are confident they will capture the other two within a few hours.

The battle followed the holdup of the empty pay wagon of the Greenwith Coal and Coke Company, at Greenwith. The wagon makes the trip weekly from the railroad station at Garman to the mines at Greenwith with a payroll of $10,000.

Because the train bringing the money was late at Garman the wagon left for the mines without the pay.

MINES AND BAYONETS ROUT GERMAN FORCES

French Aviators Bombard Foe's Gun and Shell Depot.

Paris, Aug. 16.—After furious bayonet fighting late Saturday night French troops succeeded in occupying a section of the battle ground near Pula, where the Germans had been entrenched. The infantry fighting followed the explosion of a mine by the French, which destroyed the trenches occupied by the Kaiser's troops, tearing up the earth in front of the German positions for a considerable distance.

The scene of this battle was in the territory between the river Aisne and the river Oise, where the French have been striving to batter down the elaborate defenses constructed by General Alexander von Kluck following his retreat after the battle of the Marne.

German artillery shelters and ammunition depots in the valley of the Spada, near St. Michel, have been successfully bombarded by French aviators, who dropped 108 bombs of large calibre on the German positions. Nineteen aeroplanes took part in this raid. All returned with the French lines in safety.

Spirited fighting took place Saturday night without change of position on either side in the Argonne region near Courtes Chaussees and at La Fontaine. Hand grenades and bombs were again used in these conflicts.

Both the French and Germans made lavish use of their field guns through out the night north of Arras, in the Champagne region, in Lorraine and in Alsace. The cannon duels were especially severe in the neighborhood of Souchez, in the Arras district and near Leunreut, Lorraine.

NO BAN ON MUNITIONS

U. S. in Reply to Austria Rejects Plan to Halt War Trade.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The United States, in reply to Austria's note asking the United States to forbid the exportation of arms and ammunition to belligerent nations engaged in the European conflict, rejects the proposal and declares that for this country to impose such an embargo would produce economic confusion and deprive all commerce and industry of legitimate fields of enterprise, already heavily burdened by the unavoidable restrictions of war.

The note cites the activity of Austria-Hungary and her present ally Germany, during the Boer war, as well as the Balkan wars as basis for the refusal of the United States to restrict munition shipments. Further the United States contends that this country always has depended on the rights of the nation to purchase arms and ammunition in neutral countries if the United States were attacked by a foreign power and that it would be forced to do so in time of such a war.

Kaiser Ready for Peace.

Paris, Aug. 16.—A dispatch to Fourner's News Agency, from Rome, says the German emperor, in answer to the peace letter of Pope Benedict XV, declared his willingness to accept peace negotiations provided the nations with which Germany was at war made the first overtures. Australia made a similar reply to the pope's letter, the dispatch adds.

Mrs. James Cannon and children have returned to Pittsburgh, after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tipton, in Gettysburg.

BALKAN NATIONS ARE NEAR CRISIS

Teuton Allies Plan to Cut Through Serbia.

OTHERS MUST ACT SOON

Bulgaria Not Expected to Permit Passage of Teutonic Army Across Her Soil to Save Turkey.

London, Aug. 16.—With an Austro-German army of between 300,000 and 400,000 men bombarding Belgrade in the beginning of a campaign to cut through Serbia to Turkey for the relief of the sultan's armies, now reported to be short of ammunition, the Balkan situation has been brought to the stage at which Bulgaria, Rumania and Greece will be compelled to declare their policies. It is believed here that they will decide to support the powers of the quadruple entente and place their armies in the field against Emperor William and his ally, the sultan.

At this time the entire Balkan problem depends in the main on the attitude of Bulgaria. Germany apparently hopes that Bulgaria can be induced to permit the crossing of her territory by German soldiers and the transporting of ammunition to Turkey, especially if the Teutonic forces are successful in cutting their way through Serbia swiftly.

On the other hand advice received in London in the last two days reveal a change in the policy of King Ferdinand and his advisers, with a much more favorable trend toward the entente allies than previously had existed.

It is admitted, however, in official circles that the problem can be solved only by the acquiescence of Greece and Serbia in the demand of the allies that the two nations cede to Bulgaria the territory of which Bulgaria believes she was wrongfully deprived by the treaty of 1913.

Russia, Great Britain and France are understood to have notified Greece, Serbia and Rumania that they will not be permitted to share in the redistribution of territory to be made after the war ends unless they now come to an understanding with Bulgaria.

Bulgaria has presented to the allied powers a statement of her demands, with a notice that she is not willing to debate the terms. This notice has been transmitted to both Serbia and Greece, with an intimation from the allies that both nations are expected to grant the Bulgarian requests so that an early solution may be had of the larger issues involved in the war.

A large army of Austrians and Germans has been massed near Ostrova, Hungary. A part of this force consists of troops taken from the Warsaw battle front. The point of concentration selected is near the junction of the Rumanian, Hungarian and Serbian boundary lines. The Serbian army, which twice succeeded in expelling the Austrians from Serbian territory, has not been sent to extensive entrenched positions just inside the Serbian line to meet the menace of the German forces.

It is probable that the Teutonic commanders have assembled their large forces near Ostrova to be prepared for a declaration of war by Rumania, in view of reports from Rome that Rumania was seconding the efforts of the allies to force Greece and Serbia to make terms with Bulgaria. Russia is understood to have agreed to give Rumania a wide area of territory now held by Russia, but which Rumania asserts rightly belongs to her.

The Rumanian army has been partly mobilized and four divisions of the reserves have been called to the colors. It is stated that Rumania can put 600,000 well trained men into the field within a short time if she decides to enter the war.

SHOOTS SISTER'S HEAD OFF

Small Boy Plays With Gun With Too Frequent Result.

Luray, Va., Aug. 16.—Returning from an early hunting trip in the Blue Ridge, David Smelser, who lives in the Kimball neighborhood, five miles east of Luray, handed his wife his gun telling her to put it away.

For some reason Mrs. Smelser failed to carry out her husband's orders. The Smelser children were left alone in the room, when a 6-year-old boy playfully picked up the gun and pointed it toward his sister, when the weapon was discharged, and her head was blown away.

C. O. Kell, of Alaska; C. C. Vickery, of Kansas; and H. E. Overesch, of Indiana, are to receive letters of reprimand.

EDISON HAS NEW CEMENT

Electric Wizard Invents Process Different From Others.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 16.—The plant of the Edison Cement Company, at New Village, N. J., is to be entirely remodeled, according to well-founded reports in circulation here, and by next spring will be operated on an entirely different scale from any other cement plant in the United States.

It is understood that Thomas A. Edison, one of the chief owners of the plant, has recently conducted successful experiments regarding a new system of manufacture, and that these will be placed in effect as soon as possible.

The plant is not now in operation, excepting one department, which is burning limestone for fertilizing purposes. A considerable force of men will be put at work remodeling the plant, particularly the conveyors, and by next spring, it is understood, the mill will be turning out cement by the new process.

DROP BATTLE TO CHAMBERSBURG

Error ve Game to Maroons on Saturday. Pitchers in Fine Form and Game should have Gone into Extra Innings without Score.

When Bill Clay dropped an easy fly in the fourth inning, Chambersburg scored the only tally of a pitchers' battle between Howard and Stricker Saturday afternoon. Clay was given his release in the evening, as was also Jarosick. In explanation of allowing these two men to go Manager Plank said it was to bring down the salary list. Gettysburg, with the other clubs of the league, is reducing expenses as the season is drawing to a close. Mahaffie will catch.

Boyer was called away to-day by the serious illness of his wife so that the Patriots' line-up will present a much changed appearance. Baseboard will take first base and the fielders will be Oyer, Plank and Herrill.

There wasn't much to that game of Saturday except the pitching of Howard and Stricker, and some fast fielding. Honors were even with the two pitchers and the game should have gone into extra innings with a scoreless tie. Both men were in great form but Howard's teammates again failed to score runs for him, though there was a man on second, inning after inning, and Gettysburg could not force ahead.

Mahaffie's one hand catch after a leap into the air, Baseboard's catch off the grass, and Reiff's stop featured the game, while Miller—formerly McMillan of Gettysburg—handled seven chances at second without an error. Clay's error came with a man on second and two down, and should have been the third out.

Preventing Typhoid Fever.
Proper sanitary conditions, such as destroying the fly and mosquito and their breeding places, providing good sewage disposal, keeping the premises clean, and a prompt application of anti-typhoid vaccine where there is the least suspicion of the fever, will prevent typhoid fever. Preventive methods will save 35,000 lives annually.

Has a Hard Time.
Someone is quoted as having said that of all the letters in the alphabet "E" is the most unfortunate, "because it is always out of cash, always in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time." It is also the most frequently used letter in the alphabet.

SURPRISE PARTY

strung with lanterns, was a buzz of excitement and laughter, mingled with hearty greetings and hand shaking. The evening was very pleasantly spent in the playing of games by the young folk and in renewing old acquaintanceship and pleasant conversations among the older ones present.

The crowd was very well pleased by a performance of acrobatic skill given by one of the party on a limb of a maple tree.

Late in the evening a delightful repast was laid out on groaning tables by the ladies present, and every one did ample justice to the treat. The first table was most beautifully arranged, with all the brothers and sisters, along with the father, assembled there. Along about the entering of the new day, when a good many of the kiddies had fallen asleep from sheer exhaustion, preparations were made for departure.

With every one comfortably tucked in and with many exclamations of pleasure in the events of the evening, the merry party left for their respective homes, all saying they had never before so thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Those who were present were: Franklin Kime, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bowers and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kime, of Biglerville, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Kime, of near Gettysburg, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Kime, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. William R. Alfonsperger and sons, Elmer, Mahlon, and Claire; Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Modern Plowing.

In the United Kingdom steam plowing is generally carried on on the double engine system, introduced by John Fowler in 1865. The most improved plow in the United States consists of large engines drawing behind them a number of plows, sometimes covering a space of thirty feet.

Early Polls.

At least one little girl in New York is in line for a diplomatic position when the government decides to admit feminine aspirants to the corps. She was sitting on a park bench the other afternoon, in company with another child about her own age. There was evidently some disagreement between them, and suddenly the discreet maiden turned to her obnoxious companion, smiled sweetly, and said: "Well, if one of us should get off this seat, I'd have more room."

"Father of Modern Screw."

Jesse Ramsden, an English inventor, is credited with being the father of the modern screw. He began in 1775 to pay especial attention to the making of screws by machinery, and his invention may be regarded as the first example of the modern form of screw-cutting lathe, although 50 years before there had been made in France a machine for cutting the thread on the fuses of watches, and 200 years before Jacobi Bessoni had designed a rude lathe for cutting wooden screws.

Elbert Hubbard's Creed.

"I believe that no one can harm us but ourselves, that sin is misdirected energy, that there is no devil but fear, and that the universe is planned for good. I believe that work is a blessing, that winter is as necessary as summer, that night is as useful as day, that death is a manifestation of life, and just as good. I believe in you and I believe in a Power that is in ourselves that makes for our righteousness."

Here's a Perfect Electric Bell.

An original electric bell combination is in use in Paris which is designed to get rid of all trouble caused by the question of batteries, for these are now lodged within the apparatus itself. The usual box bell shape is retained, but the arrangement of the parts is different in this case. All the magnet parts are now lodged under the gong itself.

Something About the Men and Plans to Bring a Speedy End to Reign of Anarchy.

WATCHFUL waiting in Mexico is no more. The last rites over this policy were said at the conference between the Latin American diplomats and Secretary Lansing, at which it was decided that the United States, with the moral support and co-operation of Central and South American republics, should restore peace in that country, which has been robbed and looted by the various leaders who have been in power from time to time since the overthrow of Diaz.

The calling in of the South and Central American diplomats was lauded on all sides, but this was not the first time the United States had requested them to aid in Mexico. When our troops had been landed at Vera Cruz, with a large fleet in the harbor, and when the city had been put under military government the A. B. C. mediators at the meeting at Niagara Falls smoothed over the difficulties, and the policy of watchful waiting was resumed.

Conditions failed to improve, and the United States with the other republics on this continent has outlined a method of procedure which, briefly stated, follows:

First.—An appeal was made to the Mexican factions to compose their differences in a convention or by such other means as they may regard as practicable.

Second.—If any faction fails to observe this injunction the other factions will be expected to set up a government, which in due season will be recognized by the United States, the republics of South America and the powers of Europe and the far east.

Third.—The faction that refuses to support the plan will be barred from the privilege heretofore exercised of obtaining support of any kind from either the United States or South America. This means that the opposing faction will be unable to get equipment for military forces or funds to further military operations.

Fourth.—With a full understanding of the purposes of the United States and Latin America influential leaders in Mexico will proceed to the establishment of a provisional government. This government will at once be recognized by the United States and the other great powers.

Fifth.—A plan will be devised to finance the new government of Mexico.

The Appeal Is Sent.

The joint appeal—intended as a final warning before intervention—was signed by Secretary of State Lansing, by the ambassadors of Argentina, Brazil and Chile and the ministers of Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala. The minister of Peru pledged his government to support the action taken by the conference, and John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American union, assured the conference that the remaining countries of South and Central America would undoubtedly indorse its action.

After the conference Secretary Lansing made the following announcement: "We agreed or assented to a proposition that a communication be addressed to the different factions in Mexico urging them to compose their differences, and we also agreed on the form which we will recommend to our governments with reference to the recognition of a government in Mexico."

Explains Sailing of Warships.

At the outset Secretary Lansing was asked to explain the sending of American warships to Vera Cruz. Several of the conferees felt that the dispatch of the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire might be interpreted as pledging the conference to an indorsement of armed intervention in Mexico. But any misgivings that may have existed were quieted by the secretary of state's explanation—afterward characterized by one of the conferees as "too delightfully simple"—that one of the warships was being sent down to take the place of that which is bringing the Brazilian minister up to the United States and that the other was merely moved as a matter of navy department routine.

The Latin American conferees appeared to have very little hope that the joint appeal would be effective in bringing about a solution of the Mexican problem, and nothing less than a flatfooted rejection of the peace proposal is expected from Carranza, who admittedly has obtained the upper hand in Mexico.

May Act as In Cuba.

After the invitation had been extended to the Latin American republics to assist the United States in a final effort to bring about peace in Mexico and arrive at a composition of the differences now existing between the various revolutionary factions President Wilson had decided that if this effort failed the United States would go into Mexico and restore peace in exactly the same way as in Cuba.

When this decision was reached, however, the situation south of the Rio Grande was different from what it is today. Carranza had not then obtained the upper hand.

The joint appeal embodies the recommendations made by Paul Fuller, President Wilson's confidential investigator, who has all along opposed the recognition of Carranza.

May Recognize Carranza.

Among the large number of Mexicans and Latin Americans in this country there is a very strong current of opinion that only two courses are now open to the United States. One is armed intervention in Mexico and the other the recognition of Carranza. In view of the fact that all of the Latin American republics are opposed to armed intervention, which they fear would establish a dangerous precedent in case Mexican conditions were repeated in their own country, they believe that the United States will finally recognize Carranza.

It is not thought any direct action will be taken for another month or six weeks, but if in that time Carranza has consolidated his position and established a government in Mexico City they think that recognition could not be withheld from the "first chief" without placing the United States in the position of attempting to dictate a form of government for Mexico.

Optimistic Feeling Prevails.

The feeling of optimism is shared in by all the South Americans who attended the conference. Representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay, Peru and Guatemala were present. These ambassadors were armed with the support of their respective countries.

But the only threatening feature to the policy is the actions of the Mexican bandits who are operating on the Texas border. Several Americans have recently been killed, and requests have been made for additional troops there. Major General Hugh L. Scott was sent to Mexico by the president to endeavor to preserve peace during the negotiations pending the foundation of the new government. He is holding frequent conferences with the leaders and looking after American interests during the proceedings.

Something about the South American diplomats who are adding is interesting at this time. Right from the start there was no quibbling, no hesitating over details. To those who believe that Latin America is still under the influence of the manana ("tomorrow") spirit the conferences have been a revelation. If it is the American custom to get down at once, on anything, to "brass tacks," so is it now apparently the South American custom as well. The plans are going ahead on a basis of pure business.

Da Gama a Hustler.

For this, it is asserted, due credit must be given to Ambassador da Gama. If there ever was a being to whom the term of "hustler" might be truly applied it is surely due to this quiet, forceful looking man from Brazil. A few inches under the average height, just a trifle inclined to stoutness, dignified in his every move, with a countenance that bespeaks a kindly shrewdness and with eyes that are constantly alert, he seems more the ideal American business type than the diplomat. Trained at the feet of one of the world's greatest diplomats of the modern school, Rio Branco, in whose suit he first came to the United States in 1895, when Branco solved the territorial dispute that involved Argentina, Bolivia and Brazil, Da Gama has apparently brought to himself all the keenness that distinguished his great master and has, besides, schooled himself to a capacity for work that is amazing.

This view of the Brazilian ambassador is only one of many similar expressions, and its counterpart is found in the assertion that to his excellency Dr. Romulo S. Naon, the minister of Argentina, must be awarded the title for suavity, while to his excellency Senor Eduardo Suarez Mujica, the minister of Chile, is given credit for the most pronounced manifestation of the true Latin spirit.

Men of Different Types.

These three ministers are as different in type as are the Mexican factions. While Da Gama seems to embody a combination of the best ideals of his own country with the distinguishing characteristics of the American business man, Naon is apparently entirely American and Mujica entirely French. If one did not know the last named as a Chilean he would be put down at once as the personification of all that bespeaks the true Frenchman. Distinguished by a beard that makes his face the easiest remembered of any one at the conferences, the Chilean minister, in both walk and speech, looks very much the Parisian boulevardier and is a person to be approached with awe and tremulation.

The other South American diplomats are equally well known and able men. They are as determined to have lasting peace in Mexico. All are men of action, and their governments are fully as anxious to see an end to the reign of chaos as the United States. No drastic action is likely for a few weeks yet, but when it does come it will mean a good government there.

AIR CRAFT GUNNING SPORT OF THE WAR

Soldier That Does the Work Is Prince of Artillery.

"ARCHIBALD" IS A TERROR.

Allies Give Nickname to Their Busy Anti-air Craft Gun, Which is Removed From Place to Place in a Private Car—Aeroplanes Can Withstand Much Shell Fire.

A crack and a whish through the air. No sound is more familiar at the front where the artillery is never silent—the sound of a shell breaking from a gun muzzle and its shrill flight toward the German line to pay them back for some shell they have sent writes a correspondent from the British headquarters in France.

Only this which did not pass put over the landscape in a long parabola on toward the German lines. It went right up into the heavens at about the angle of a skyrocket, for it was Archibald who was on the job.

Six or seven thousand feet over the British trenches there was something as big as your hand against the light blue of the summer sky. This was the target—a German aeroplane.

Wings of Intelligence.

Other features of life at the front may grow commonplace, but never the work of the planes—these wings of the army's intelligence. If they might fly as low as they pleased they might know all that was going on over the lines. They must keep up so high that through the aviator's glasses a man on the road is the size of a pinhead. Archibald, the anti-air craft gun, sets the dead line. He watches over it as a cat watches a mouse. The trick of sneaking up under the cover of a noon day cloud and all the other man bites tricks he knows.

A couple of seconds after that crack a tiny puff of smoke breaks about a hundred yards behind the target. The smoking brass shell case is out of Archibald's steel throat and another shell case with its charge slipped its place and started on its way to be for the first puff breaks.

Archibald rushes the fighting. For the business of the time is to sidestep the aviator cannot hit back except through its allies, the German batteries, on the earth. But all that the aviator can see is mottled landscape from his side Archibald flies no goal flags.

Archibald's propensities are entirely peripatetic. He is the vagabond of the army lines. Locate him—and he is gone. He is the only gun which keeps regular hours like a Christian gentleman. All the others fire at any hour night or day. Aeroplanes do not go up at night, and when no aeroplanes are up Archibald has no interest in the war.

Why he was named Archibald nobody knows. As his full name is Archibald, the Archer, possibly, it comes from some association with the idea of archery.

Has His Private Car.

Archibald, who is quite the swiftest thing in the army, has his own private car built especially for him. While the cavalry horses back of the lines grow sleek from inaction, the aeroplanes have taken their places. All the romances and risk of scouting are theirs.

Such of the cavalry's former part as the planes do not play Archibald plays. He keeps off the enemy's scouts. Do you seek team work spirit of corps and smartness in this theater of France where all the old glamor of war is lacking? You will find it in the attentants of Archibald.

The sport of war is not dead for Archibald. Here you see your target, which is so rare these days

A Chapter of Errors

By EUNICE BLAKE

The Gregory family shut up their city residence July 1. Mr. Gregory went to Europe on business, while Mrs. Gregory and the children departed for their summer place in New Hampshire. On Sept. 2 Mrs. Gregory received a letter from her husband from London informing her that he would arrive in New York on the 25th of August. He would open the city residence and keep bachelor's hall there till the return of the family, which was set for Tuesday after Labor day.

Mr. Gregory arrived on the day named and, having made himself comfortable at home, dined and proceeded to amuse himself in his library. But loneliness drove him out, and he did not return till 11 o'clock. There was a vestibule entrance to his house, the outer door of which was not locked, and, turning the knob, he pushed open the door. In the inner door were glass panels, through which a light in the hall shone dimly and revealed a man's figure crouching in a corner of the vestibule. Mr. Gregory was a powerful man, and a stranger to fear. Taking him through the inner door, which he had already opened, into the hall and, shaking him as a cat would shake a mouse, cried in stentorian tones: "You contemptible sneak thief! What are you doing here?"

The man, who was young and well dressed, made no reply. He seemed to be undecided as to what excuse to make. There was a pitiable look on his face that excited Mr. Gregory's commiseration.

"You're altogether too decent a looking man," said the latter, "to be making a living in this way. Have you ever done any thievery before?"

"No, sir," said the man dejectedly. "Well, in that case I'll let you go. If I turn you in you'll go up for a term of years. I'll give you a chance to work. Now get out of here."

The next morning as he was going out to his club for breakfast he met the postman at the door, who handed him a letter from his daughter Adele postmarked New Hampshire.

Dearest Papa—I trust that you have safely arrived. When you read this you will doubtless have learned of the important event that has occurred in my life. I wish you would write me just as you feel. Don't conceal a single thing. You know that your approval of everything I have ever done has been necessary to my happiness. In this, the most important of all, I beg of you to write me frankly and freely.

As soon as Mr. Gregory found leisure to do so he wrote his daughter laconically:

Arrived on time. Yours received. Don't understand. Your loving FATHER.

By return mail came a letter which was as laconic as his own:

Never mind. All a mistake. ADELE. "What the dickens is the matter with the child?" muttered Mr. Gregory to himself. "One day it is the most important event of her life, the next all a mistake."

However, he was familiar with these "great events" in the lives of his children and had become accustomed to consider them of little real moment. So absorbed was he during the day that he forgot all about this family matter. In the afternoon he received a telegram from his wife which upset him completely:

Come at once. Adele has had a severe shock.

Mr. Gregory took the first through train to his summer home and on his arrival met his wife at the door, who told him that during his absence Adele had met and fallen desperately in love with a young man, who had responded. He was intellectually rather than physically vigorous and desperately sensitive. He had returned to the city, and Adele had received a letter from him breaking the engagement without giving any reason. In consequence the poor girl was prostrated.

Mr. Gregory was furious. After commiserating with his daughter and getting from his wife the name and address of the man who had flitted Adele he returned to the city. On the morning after his arrival the culprit was sitting at a 10 o'clock breakfast, which he was not eating, by the by, when the doorbell rang, and Mr. Gregory pushed past the maid who admitted him into the dining room. On the threshold he stood stock still. The culprit crouched behind the breakfast table.

"It seems to me I have seen you before," said the astonished Gregory.

The man stared at him, trembling. "What in thunder does this all mean?" cried Gregory.

Then the situation dawned upon him. His daughter's suitor had called on him doubtless to ask for her hand, got wedged in the vestibule and been mistaken for a sneak thief.

That same day Adele received a telegram from her father:

All a mistake. We will be with you tomorrow evening.

When the train arrived the next day it brought Adele's father and her recalcitrant suitor. Then it was explained how he had been ejected from the house for a sneak thief; how, being oversensitive, rather than endure the mortification of an explanation, he had chosen to break his engagement, and how, since the matter had come out, he was delighted to renew it.

"Papa," said Adele after all was explained, "why weren't you made more gentle?"

"H'm!" was the reply. "Why did you get such a sensitive lover?"

In the old days along the Bowery storekeepers had what were known as "pullers in" who grabbed passers by and endeavored to sell them by main strength.

This idea is that an attractive store front and an interesting window attract customers.

To-day every one reads the newspapers and alert storekeepers put to the front in their window the goods which manufacturers are advertising in the newspapers.

These goods are in the public mind. Their presence in the store window attracts attention and they bring people inside to look and buy.
